INTRODUCTION

The compilation of a checklist of the science fiction, fantasy and related magazines is a challenging project. Such a checklist may serve many purposes, from a guide to the magazine collector to a bibliographic resource for the scholar. The checklist may be narrowly defined to include only the "science fiction" magazines (providing, of course, one can successfully define that phrase), or more broadly defined to include science fiction, fantasy, and other related titles. This checklist takes the broader perspective, including a variety of magazines, all of which are in some way related to science fiction and fantasy. Philosophically, the checklist operates from the position that systematic bibliography must start from quantitative checklists and bibliographies which establish the full range of the subject, and proceed to descriptive bibliographies, content studies, historical analyses, and other studies. Without the establishment of the quantitative whole of the field, the historian or critic runs the risk of making an erroneous statement derived from incomplete data.

This Checklist is designed to establish the range of magazine science and fantasy as it is known in 1982, and contains data on most known science fiction and fantasy magazines worldwide. The Checklist does not contain data on several magazines which are rare or perhaps nonexistent; as factual data on these magazines is located, they will be added to the checklist. The user may also find magazines which they consider outside the scope of the field. The statement of philosophy above explains their inclusion at this time. As other data becomes available or issues are available for examination, titles will be added or deleted as dictated by facts.

The Checklist is functionally an analytical bibliography of the magazines, providing exact information on the bibliographic history of the magazines, as shown in the issues themselves. In addition, notes have been added from other sources, to clarify some points, or to provide information not given in the magazines. The Checklist attempt to show exact points of title change for all major title variations of the magazines, and many of the subtitle changes. Since the Checklist was compiled over a period of several years, some subtitle omissions occur; a project is now underway to complete the analytical element of this Checklist. No other single source provides the depth of information, nor the accuracy of information on the sciencefiction and fantasy magazines for the time period covered.

This checklist is based on the Texas A&M University Library Science Fiction Research Collection, and was initially created as a holdings list of that collection as it was acquired. The Texas A&M University Library Science Fiction Research Collection now houses from 90% to 95% of the English language titles in this checklist, and a sample of the non-English titles. Those items which are not held in the Texas A&M collection have been verified in other collections whenever possible. The checklist does not include comic books, the "monster" magazines, or many of the early titles which carried significant quantities of fantastic fiction, such as Argosy, All-Story, or Modern Electrics. Also excluded at this time are the many "special issues"of magazines which were completely devoted to fantastic fiction.

The appendix, listing the majority of the non-English language magazines, is a particularly difficult listing to compile. Issues and data are difficult to obtain and verify, the languages defy any single bibliographer, and the various styles of publishing make the creation of an accurate checklist slow and arduous. Many titles, previously identified as "magazines", turned out to be numbered series, more akin to the old dime novels, or to a publisher's numbering scheme, such as that originally employed by DAW Books. This section is under continuous revision, with the ultimate goal being the creation of a complete checklist for each appropriate title. Location of issues and data for some countries is almost by accident rather than design. Three years of correspondence has failed to locate much more than a few hints about the Mexican or Brazilian SF titles, for example, and collections which may contain those titles have been beyond the reach of the compiler.

ARRANGEMENT

The Checklist is alphabetically arranged by title. Following normal American practice, entry is under the current (or last) title used. Consequently, issues of Astounding will be found under the Analog entry. Title cross references refer the user from all significant title changes to the filing title of each magazine.

DATA PROVIDED

Each entry provides as much data as could be located and verified from the issues themselves. The following data are provided: latest title, inclusive numbering, inclusive dates; place of publication and latest publisher; editors; publisher variations; code; where indexed; information notes; issue-by-issue checklist with title changes and numbering variations noted. The information notes may be drawn from the issues themselves, or from other sources.

The "Editor Index" provides access to the service of all editors listed in the Checklist. Exact dates of the change of editorial control are frequently obscure; dates shown are as accurate as could be determined. The "Indexes to the Magazines" listing fully identifies each index referred to in the "Indexed in:" statements in the Checklist. This listing is not definitive, but does include the majority of the important indexes to the magazines. Additional index information will be added as it is identified, along with a bibliography of secondary books and articles about the SF magazines.

UPDATING

No checklist of this type is ever complete, or completely without error. Every effort has been made to verify details, but some errors have no doubt crept in. In some cases, the magazines have a very checkered past, and several possibilities exist as to how to list them. The checklists included here vary from previously published checklists in some ways, but in virtually every case, the variation is based on both actual examination of the issues, and consultation with knowledgeable authorities on the titles. In a few cases, problems are known to exist, but the resolution is not yet available, and will be deferred until the second edition of this checklist. In other cases, incomplete data is included here, on the theory that some information is better than none. Data on these titles will be included in future editions as it is available. The combined expertise of the users of the checklist far exceeds the efforts of any two or three people, and I invite your comments and suggestions on the improvement of this checklist. Address any correspondence to: Hal W. Hall, 3608 Meadow Oaks Ln., Bryan, TX 77802.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Many individuals assisted in the creation of this checklist. In all cases , their help was invaluable, and made the checklist a better product.

Kenneth R. Johnson in particular deserves mention for the meticulous review of the first draft of the checklist, and checking details against the MIT Science Fiction Society collection. Ken uncovered several typographic errors in the document, identified several problem areas, and proposed revisions which were important in more accurately listing the titles. No amount of thanks are adequate for the time and effort he expended.

Donald H. Dyal, Head, Special Collections at Texas A&M University, provided invaluable support in the the building of the Science Fiction Research Collection, in his comments on the Checklist, and in his cooperativness in making the collection available for in-depth analysis.

Donald Tuck, of Hobart, Tasmania, also provided invaluable help on a number of scarce and esoteric titles.

Mary Beth Walker, of the Eastern New Mexico University Library, assisted in clarification of several problem titles.

Robert A. Tibbetts, of The Ohio State University Library, assisted in the early development of the checklist, and in providing details on magazines held in the Ohio State Library Collection.

George Michaels, of the Texas A&M University Library, assisted in compilation of the list and verification of details.

Many others offered comments and suggestions on the Checklist. To all those unnamed correspondents, a special "Thank You" for your time and assistance.

ANALOG SCIENCE FICTION SCIENCE
 FACT. v. 1- Jan. 1930-
 New York, Davis Publications, Inc.

Editor: Jan. 1930-Mar. 1933, Harry Bates;
 Oct. 1933-Sep. 1937, Frederick Orlin
 Tremaine; Oct. 1937-July 1971, John
 Wood Campbell Jr.; Jan. 1972-Nov. 1978,
 Ben Bova; Dec. 1978- , Stanley Schmidt.
 Publisher varies: Jan.-Nov. 1930,
 Publisher's Fiscal Group; Dec. 1930-May
 1931, Reader's Guild, Inc.; Jun. 1931-Mar.
 1933, Clayton Magazines, Inc.; Oct. 1933-
 Jan. 1962, Street and Smith Publications,
 Inc.; Feb. 1962-Aug. 1980, Conde Nast
 Publications, Inc.; Sep. 1980-, Davis
 Publications, Inc.
 Note: Early editors were not given masthead credit, so exact points of change are difficult to determine. Clearly,
 Campbell took over editorship prior to Jan.
 1938, since that issue carries a letter addressed to him as editor.
 Publication suspended: Apr.-Sep. 1933.

FLYING SAUCERS FROM OTHER
WORLDS. No. 1-No. 25. Nov. 1949-Jun.
1960.

Evanston, Ind., Palmer Publications, Inc.

Editor: Jun.-Sep. 1953, George Bell; Dec.
1953-Sep. 1957, Ray Palmer and Bea
Mahaffey.

Publisher varies: Jan.-Sep. 1953, Bell
Publications; Dec. 1953-Sep. 1957,
Palmer Publications.

Note: A notation on early Universe issues states that it includes Other Worlds and Flying Saucers.

Note: During the period 1957-1960,
Palmer varied the cover titles of the magazines to show varying content in magazine issues carrying the same apparent title. Fiction issues were shown as Flying Saucers From OTHER WORLDS. Non-fiction issues were shown as FLYING SAUCERS From Other Worlds.
Palmer treated the two as separate subscription items, cf. his editorial in the
Aug. 1957 issue.

Note: FLYING SAUCERS continued after issue 17, November 1960, as a non-fiction title. This checklist was extended to that point to establish the pattern of the magazine, even though fiction issues stopped as of 1957.

OTHER WORLDS SCIENCE STORIES.

V. I-V. 5 No. 7. Nov. 1949-Jul. 1953.

Evanston: IL., Clarke Publishing Co., Inc.

Editor: Nov. 1949, Robert N. Webster; Jan. 1950, Robert N. Webster and Ray Palmer; Mar. 1950-Sep. 1957, Ray Palmer.

Note: The title Other Worlds Science Stories reappeared in May 1955, as a title change from Universe Science Fiction, and continuing the numbering of Universe. To complicate matters, however, the issues also carried a parenthetical whole number correctly matching the numbering of the 1944-1953 publication of Other Worlds Science Stories.

SCIENCE FICTION STORIES. V. 5 No. 4 - V. 11 No. 4. Jan. 1955-winter. 1963. Holyoke, Mass., Columbia Publications, Inc.

Editor: Robert A. W. Lowndes.

Note: Assumed volume numbering of Future Science Fiction.

Note: The cover title of the magazine had the phrase "The Original" added after Sep. 1955, but this was not a title change, since the masthead title remained Science Fiction Stories, and the editor noted in the letter column that this was not a title change.

Note: The last three issues listed, Vol. 11, No. 2A-4, were published by SF Times, Inc., and edited by Ray Van Houten.

These issues were at best semi-professional, with no payment for contributions. Since SF Times, Inc. appears to have purchased the rights to the title, according to Tuck in his Encyclopedia of Science Fiction and Fantasy, Vol. 3, p. 589, and since the volume and issue numbering are consistent, the issues are listed here for completeness of information.

AUSTRIA.

Austria had no true science fiction magazines, even though Star-Utopia and Uranus are reported as magazines in some sources. These two titles are more nearly modern equivalents of the old dime-novels, usually saddle stitched "booklets", softbound, of 32 or 64 pages each, containing a single story. Occasionally a second short item is included. Frequently, the booklets are part of a series with a single hero. Star-Utopia was published by Josef-Maria Steffek, Vienna, and appeared in 10 issues in 1957-1958. (F. Rottensteiner)

GERMANY

(Note: Germany has many continuously numbered SF series, but few are magazines in the traditional sense. Most series appear frequently, often weekly, and feature translated or original short novels, perhaps only one or two per volume, and frequently drastically abridged. They are bibliographically parallel to the old dime novel series which were sequentially numbered but in no way constituted a continuous series publication. Most of these titles are excluded from this listing of magazines to avoid compounding the confusion as to their actual form. The titles listed here are all SF magazines, or are listed for clarification. A brief appendix identifies additional titles which are sometimes identified as magazines.)

Ryohei Takahashi.

PUBLISHER: Tsurumoto-Room

NOTE: Japan featured many "Special Science Fiction Issues" in the fifties and sixties, to satisfy the demand for quality SF in the absence of a continuing SF magazine. One of these, Hoseki, is cited in this listing, but the scholar should be aware there were many more issues similar to this one. No listing of these special issues was discovered during the preparation of this listing.
